Wildland Firefighting: Everyone Goes Home video: Wildland Firefighting: Everyone Goes Home, a video produced by the National Fallen Firefighters Foundation with CoolWater Multi Media, is a story that honors friends and can save the lives of others. Wildland firefighters, including members of the U.S. Forest Service, crew chiefs and managers, talk about the loss of 14 firefighters and the lessons learned from the July, 1994 South Canyon Fire on Storm King Mountain. Storm King Mountain is the starting point for modern day wildland firefighting.

Stress Preparedness and Resilience video: This video discusses the aspects of confronting challenges, setbacks and trauma. The video discusses not only being physically fit but mentally fit to perform the job at hand.
